Framing Options for Patio Enclosures

We are pleased to offer a wide range of beautiful and functional materials for the framing of all our patio enclosures. Our team works with our clients to create distinctive designs using the highest-quality products that work well with any decor.

- Vinyl: Popular with homeowners for patio enclosure supports thanks to its low cost, minimal upkeep and superior strength and insulation, vinyl offers a number of key design benefits as well. Vinyl is simple to clean and resists signs of wear such as dents and scratches, allowing your patio enclosure to stay looking like new for many seasons.
- Aluminum: Aluminum is the material most often used for the structural elements of patio enclosures. The natural strength of aluminum allows patio enclosures that utilize this material to stand up to rough weather while resisting corrosion and sagging.
- Wood: Naturally weather-resistant and sturdy, wood is the perfect choice of material for the interior of a patio enclosure to add warmth, beauty, and effortless elegance to your outdoor retreat. Our wood wall system is very flexible and we can match your current home for a seamless addition to your home.

Door Options for Patio Enclosures

As with your options for framing, your door selection will help create a patio enclosure that is uniquely designed to match your home and your style.

- French Doors: These double doors are traditionally hinged and are generally constructed to be similar in appearance to a standard framed window. Many homeowners appreciate the ability of French doors to completely open, allowing for a full view of and access to the outside. French patio doors have an option of Blinds Between the Glass that can be added for privacy and to block the harsh rays of the sun. Blinds between the glass eliminate a need to add window coverings to the glass and no more dusting and cleaning blinds that are permanently enclosed in the glass panes.
- Sliding Glass Doors: Sliding glass patio doors are installed on a track, allowing them to take up less space than hinged doors. When installed with screen doors, a sliding patio door is an excellent way to allow cool summer breezes into your home while keeping out pests.
- Sliding Doors with Blinds Between Glass: A great option for a sliding patio door in blinds in between the glass panes to block the sun and have total privacy, thus eliminating the need for exterior window covering on the door. Blinds between the glass have the added value of never needing to be dusted or cleaned and children and pets cannot be entangled in their operation.
- Window Wall System: The newest trend is called a window wall where the doors all stack to one side to allow a wall to be completely opened to the outside. Allowing a wide access opening to the exterior of the home. Window wall systems can be slide stacking or bi-fold in their operation.

Installation of Your Patio Enclosure

Our Utah patio enclosure professionals will handle the installation of your new patio enclosure from start to finish with clear guidelines for what you can expect at all stages of the process.

- Measurements: At the beginning of the process, our technician will come to your home to take thorough measurements and double-check that we have all of the specifications for your patio enclosure correct including the color, framing and door options.
- Permits: To make the process easier for you, our team will completely handle the process of obtaining the proper permits if required by the city.
- Site Preparation: We will take care of any preparation that is needed before your new patio enclosure can be installed such as leveling the ground and pouring concrete or building a subfloor deck to accommodate elevated structures.
- Installation: On installation day, all that's required from you is that you provide our crew with a work area that is free of items and secure from pets. If we need more than one day for installation, we will ensure that the work area is completely clean before we leave each day.

- Walkthrough: At the end of installation, our technician will lead you on a walkthrough to ensure that you are satisfied and comfortable with the operation of any features of your patio enclosure.
